

Iceland, June 2005, Reykjavik's Hotel Nordica hosted the 10th World Annual Aluminum Conference. Delegates sought to discuss ways to effectively annihilate Europe's last natural wilderness, in Iceland, through dam powered heavy industrialization.

To counter the bodies pretensions at sustainable ecological care, three environmentalists disrupted proceedings by splattering representatives with green Skyr, a traditional Icelandic natural (non-violent!) yoghurt.

They have 20ft trucks and Channel Tunnel diggers; we have Skyr!

Though recent Galup poles have suggested that 90% of Icelanders are against this heavy industrialization, the Icelandic state has predictably been keen to suppress any defiance, in the case of the 'Skyr Three' by deporting Paul Gill back to the UK and issuing potential fines of £50,000 and up to two years in prison to Arna Osp and Olafur Pall, under charges of Criminal Damage!

We come here today to show our solidarity with Arna Osp, Olafur Pall and Paul Gill, enraged by the proceedings both in the courts and the wilderness of Iceland, against the relentlessly over producing corporations and smarmy politicians throughout the world. Our world's not dying, it's being killed.
